

Google Top Rising Searches

Abc News Now
January 12, 2007
286 words

CONTENT: METH COFFEE, YERBA MADE, HOAX, GERMAN GRAY GIANT, NORTH KOREA, KIM JONG-IL, E-MAIL

DAVID MUIR (ABC NEWS)

(Off-camera) We're gonna move on now to our collaboration with Google, the world's leading search engine.

GRAPHICS: GOOGLE WORLD NEWS

GRAPHICS: TOP RISING SEARCHES

GRAPHICS: "GOOD GRADES NOW"

DAVID MUIR (ABC NEWS)

(Voiceover) And among today's top rising searches is good grades now. Perhaps, you've seen it in your inbox. It's being passed along student blogs right now. And apparently, it's a hoax. Some enterprising techies discovered that the website apparently hasn't been active in months and maybe some sort of a front for an unnamed online company. We'll keep following that one.

GRAPHICS: "METH COFFEE"

DAVID MUIR (ABC NEWS)

(Voiceover) Also rising today, a concoction, even the staffers of the 'Webcast' here couldn't drink. Despite its name, meth coffee, doesn't really have any methamphetamines in it. It does use particular potent coffee beans and something called the yerba mate to give you boost even more than normal coffee does. And the words of the company, each cup gives a rush, some euphoria and a smooth edged high. Okay. Let's stick to the regular stuff.

GRAPHICS: "GERMAN GRAY GIANT"

DAVID MUIR (ABC NEWS)

(Voiceover) And even more bizarre, this, German Grey Giant. It's apparently a rabbit, a huge rabbit. It's as heavy as 22 pounds. They are bred by one German scientist, and now, Kim Jong Il, the dictator of North Korea has called that scientist and asked him to provide the super bunny's as food. North Korea, as you know, suffers from a serious food shortage. And apparently that rabbit, he thinks, could be a solution.

DAVID MUIR (ABC NEWS)

(Off-camera) We are not making this stuff up.

Copyright 2007 ABC, Inc. All Rights Reserved

Close Window